RELIEF ARMY NEARS STALINGRAD

RUSSIANS CAPTURE NEW POSITIONS

IN a slow, but irresistible, advance from the north-west, Marshal Timoshenko's Army is moving to the relief of shattered Stalingrad, taking position after position on its way.

In Stalingrad hundreds of bitter battles are taking place —the mounds of rubble that were once houses and the wrecks of tanks alike serving as breastwork and cover for attack and defence—but with little prospect of an immediate decision. South of the city another Russian force is attacking the flank of the besiegers.

In the Caucasus the Germans claim new gains in the direction of the Black Sea port of Tuapse, but Moscow reports that in the Caucasus generally the German advance has been halted, and that the Red Armies hold the initiative.

In the Voronezh area the Russians have penetrated the German defences, capturing positions of strategic importance.—(Reuter.)

DRIVE FOR BLACK SEA PORT

MOSCOW, Tuesday.—Reuter's correspondent here states:—"Stalingrad's defenders have repelled yet another frenzied German assault on its northern factory belt, and Marshal Timoshenko's relief army is biting deep into the German lines north-west of the city. Infantrymen, supported by mobile artillery detachments, are wrenching one trench after another from the Germans. The latest messages from this vital sector report another Soviet advance in the last twenty-four hours, despite bitter resistance. Behind their trenches the Germans have scattered a number of damaged tanks, manned by crews with orders to hold these improvised pill-boxes to the last. The Red Army have countered this new stratagem by special destroyer detachments, which creep up to the tanks and either blow them up or drench them with inflammable liquid. At least 8,000 Germans, supported by numerous tanks, were hurled against one sector of the workers' settlement in the city. Attacks were made in successive waves, each one being forced to fall back by the wall of fire. At the seventh attack the enemy retired beaten, leaving several tanks and about a company of dead in the shattered streets. The Soviet land troops received valuable help from the Volga flotilla of gunboats, which silenced two German artillery batteries and three mortars.

FIRM RESISTANCE

"In another part of the fiercely-contested suburbs Soviet troops counter-attacked. A number of houses were cleared and immediately fortified. A Soviet front line report says:—'In the last twenty-four hours the Germans have suffered heavy losses but have failed to gain any ground either in the main or in the less important sectors. Our troops are staunchly holding their lines.'

"The battle for the ruined city is every day becoming more clearly a test of strategy between Soviet and German generalship. The Germans have set themselves the task of capturing what is in reality a heap of rubble, while the Russians are developing strategic moves which may have far-reaching consequences. Even if the Germans succeed in clearing the Russians out of the city—which seems more remote to-day than three weeks ago—they will then have to face two large Soviet armies which have been steadily accumulating on their flanks.

"A new threat to the whole German southern front has developed in the Voronezh area. After a heavy artillery barrage Soviet troops have again passed to the offensive, and, smashing the German lines, have driven a mile and a half deep wedge in the enemy's defence system. A populated point which the Germans had heavily fortified was surrounded and stormed from three directions.

LONDON, Tuesday.—The German communiqué says: "In the Caucasus area the enemy was dislodged from one height after another in a continuous attack. Again yesterday, despite resistance, he lost more strongly-built positions on heights and fortified localities in the mountains north-east of Tuapse and on the Terek.

"In Stalingrad fresh progress was made in hard hand-to-hand fighting. Bombers and short-range aircraft supported the shock troops.

"North-west of the city we succeeded in encircling another enemy force.

"On the Don front Rumanian, Italian and Hungarian troops repulsed several enemy thrusts and attempts to cross the river.

"In the central sector of the front a number of enemy pill-boxes and fighting points were destroyed in successful shock troop operations. The crews were destroyed or taken prisoner.

"Our attack south-east of Lake Ilmen resulted yesterday in important territorial gains."—(Reuter.)

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday.—A German military spokesman said to-day that the Russian war is only a strategic sideshow, Britain still remained the main enemy, and is the most important battlefield, on which final victory will be won. Russia is no longer a serious danger for Germany; its army has already been completely defeated and will never rise again. The offensive can be expected to turn towards the west any day, he said.—(Reuter.)

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Tuesday.—To-night's Soviet communiqué states: "During October 6 our troops fought the enemy in the areas of Stalingrad and Mozdok. No material changes took place on the other fronts.

"In the area of Stalingrad fierce battles continued. Enemy infantry and tanks ceaselessly attacked our positions in the factory settlement. North-west of Stalingrad a Soviet unit overcame enemy resistance and gained some ground. The Germans lost 500 men.

"South-east of Novorossisk our troops repelled attacks by large enemy forces, and are firmly holding the positions taken. More than 200 Germans were killed.

"In the area of Mozdok Soviet gunners and mortar crews repelled three enemy attacks, destroying four tanks, ten machine-guns, two lorries, and killing some 200 Germans. In another sector fierce fighting took place for a certain inhabited locality, which changed hands four times. After fierce engagements our unit evacuated this inhabited locality. Two days ago, in the area of Sinyavino, two enemy divisions launched an attack against our positions. All the enemy attacks were repelled with tremendous losses for him. In this fighting the Germans lost 16 tanks and about 4,000 officers and men."

Field-Marshal von Kuechler, who has succeeded General von Leeb as German Commander-in-Chief in North Russia. Indications are that he is preparing an all-out offensive against Leningrad.

CHARGE AGAINST MR. CHAPMAN

DECISION TO-DAY

THE cross-examination of Mr. Walter Chapman, director of L. Jordan, Ltd., Ennis, proprietor of Ennis Braid Mills, who was charged with the fraudulent evasion of Customs duties on two of twenty-two counts, was concluded before District Justice Gleeson at Ennis yesterday, and the evidence closed.

The Justice said that he would give judgment to-day on the two charges, after which he would deal with the same two charges against the company.

Mr. Chapman, answering Mr. K. Dixon, K.C. (prosecuting), denied that he had been importing quantities in excess of the quantity allowed by licence. His applications for import licences had shown the quantity and value. Any unfinished lace-braid exported since the war was a mistake. Whilst he was supposed to know everything, he had not eyes all over his head, and must leave something to others in responsible positions. He knew that a 1941 export licence had been cancelled, but he did not remember that the reason was the importation by him of Belgian braid into England. He did remember Mr. Devlin and himself going to see Mr. Lemass, and something was said about these things. On the basis that they would export Ennis braid, the licence was restored.

Counsel suggested that defendant had got a licence in gross yards, and imported in gross hanks. "Yes," said Mr. Chapman, "but the company imported the quantity applied for. They applied for a licence for gross, and mentioned the value."

Mr. Dixon put a question based on proceedings before Mr. C. C. McElligott, inspector, appointed to inquire into the affairs of L. J. Jordan, Ltd., when Mr. C. Lavery, K.C., objected and said that Mr. Chapman had applied on several occasions to Mr. McElligott for a copy of the evidence, but had been refused. It now appeared that Mr. McElligott had supplied to the Revenue Commissioners the information which he had refused to the company.

Mr. Dixon said it was Mr. McElligott's duty to supply, if requested, that information to the Revenue Commissioners.

District Justice Gleeson ruled that the evidence given before Mr. McElligott was not admissable.

NOT TO DECEIVE

The defendant was questioned about a licence "Manufactured in Ennis," and Mr. Dixon suggested the reason was to deceive the Department as to the amount for which they would issue a licence, and to deceive the Customs officers as to the amount exported. "No," said Mr. Chapman, "I will not agree to that at all."

Mr. Lavery called for the production of two documents, which, he said, supported the case for the defence and displaced that for the prosecution.

Mr. Costello, K.C., said that weeks ago Mr Chapman told him such documents existed, but he could not get them. They were official documents, in which the word "gross," not "gross yards," was used.

Mr. Dixon said that they were two inter-departmental communications, and, if they were to go in evidence, he would probably have to call departmental witnesses and produce minutes.

The Justice said that they were strictly not evidence, but he thought, in fairness to the defendant, they ought to be produced, but he could not compel production.

Mr. Dixon did not produce the documents and this concluded the evidence.

Mr. Lavery said that the defence had been handicapped, hindered and hampered in every way. Finally there was the last crying outrage—the deliberate withholding of documents, despite the observation of the Justice that they should be made available.

LICENSING HOURS

DEPUTATION TO MINISTER

A deputation from the National Council of the Licensed Grocers' and Vintners' Association will wait on the Minister for Justice, Mr. G. Boland, to-day, to submit their proposals in regard to the new Licensing Bill.

The Council considered the bill in all its aspects during a six-hours' conference yesterday.

It was decided to ask the Minister to permit the opening of public-houses on week-days in Cork, Limerick, and Waterford from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., and to abolish the mid-day closing hour; and in Dublin from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The Sunday hours suggested for Cork, Limerick and Waterford were 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., and for Dublin 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

JAPANESE WARSHIP HIT

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—The U.S. Navy Department announced to-day that a heavy Japanese cruiser has been damaged in the Solomons. The cruiser received at least one bomb hit and two torpedo hits. Eleven Japanese fighters were shot down over Guadalcanal, where there has been little ground activity for the past few days. The communiqué adds: "During the night of October 3-4 Navy and Marine Corps dive-bombers attacked an enemy heavy cruiser and several destroyers which were engaged in the landing of troop reinforcements on Guadalcanal."—Reuter.

STALIN'S SECOND FRONT CALL

BRITISH RETICENCE

MR. CHURCHILL in the House of Commons yesterday resisted attempts to draw from him comment on M. Stalin's recent "Second Front" statement. He told Mr. Arthur Greenwood (Leader of the Labour Party) that no statement by the Government was called for, further than those already given on the subject.

When Mr. Aneurin Bevan (Labour) suggested that if there was any impression among the British workers of a misunderstanding between the Soviet Union and Great Britain there would be a serious effect on war production, Mr. Churchill replied, amid cheers, that he had "nothing to add."

Colonel Oliver Stanley (Conservative)—Is the Prime Minister aware that the great mass of people in this country know perfectly well that whatever they may think about the Prime Minister he is the last man in the world who wants prodding?

While it is not impossible that the British and American Ambassadors in Russia have had an informal talk on Premier Stalin's statement on the second front and Allied help, it was stated in London yesterday that no reports concerning such a talk have been received here, says the Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent. The British Ambassador has received no instructions to seek such a meeting or to ask for any explanations of M. Stalin's statements.

According to the Press Association's Lobby Correspondent, there is no likelihood of a Commons debate on M. Stalin's statement.

Mr. Sumner Welles, United States Under-Secretary of State, said yesterday that no instructions had been sent to Admiral Standley, United States Ambassador in Moscow, to seek clarification of M. Stalin's statement, says a Reuter message from Washington.

Admiral Standley, United States Ambassador in Moscow, is returning shortly to America to report to President Roosevelt and Mr. Cordell Hull regarding ways and means of co-ordinating to the utmost the war effort of America and the Soviet. Military and Naval Attachés at the American Embassy, who are directly concerned with the military phases of co-operation between the two countries, are accompanying him, says a Reuter message from Moscow.

BRITAIN'S AIM

The British people are eager "to hand it out" to the enemy, Lord Halifax said at St. Louis yesterday. "That is why they are impatient for a speedy and effective development of military pressure on Germany, where those who are most competent to advise say it can be done. They have the offensive spirit."

He described the acute man-power situation in Britain, spoke of woman's rôle in the war effort, and added that if he were Hitler and the German General Staff, he would say: "The English have done a pretty good job in production, but, what's worse, is America getting into stride to go full blast. And the two added together are not going to make things look too good."—(Press Association.)

President Roosevelt refused to comment on M. Stalin's letter when asked to do so yesterday at his Press conference in Washington.—(Press Association.)

Mr. Wendell Willkie, at Chungking, in a vigorous statement yesterday, demanded "an all-out armed offensive everywhere by all the United Nations"; more arms, especially for China and Russia; and a clear-cut renunciation of any imperialist designs by the Western nations in Asia.

The statement was issued after his fourth conversation with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. It reflected impatience, not only over the opening of offensive hostilities on a world-wide basis, but also over the rate of delivery of material to China and Russia.—(Associated Press.)

CORK SOLICITOR'S DEFAULT

OVER £4,000 INVOLVED

George Cyril Quinn, a solicitor, who practised at Cork and Cove, pleaded guilty at Cork Circuit Court yesterday on six counts of fraudulent conversion between November, 1939, and March, 1942, namely, £1,400 Financial Agreement Loan, £400 War Loan, £200 Fourth National Loan, £830 deposited in the Bank of Ireland at Cove, £100 deposited in the Munster and Leinster Bank, Cove; £656 deposited in the Eire Post Office Savings Bank, £234 in the British Post Office Savings Bank, all totalling in value £3,838, for the benefit of Kathleen Carr, of which, it was alleged, he converted £3,275 to his own use. On other counts he was charged with the larceny of 22 Munster and Leinster Bank shares and a share certificate for 55 shares in John Daly and Co., Ltd., all value £301, the property of Mary J. Fitzgerald, and the fraudulent conversion of those shares; fraudulent conversion of £400 Fourth National Loan, and £36 ditto, entrusted to him by Margaret Doyle.

Judge O'Connor said that he would put the accused man back for sentence until he had read the proceedings in the Bankruptcy Court.

GRAVEYARD FIND

A smugglers' rendezvous was discovered in the graveyard at Connons Catholic Church, Clones, Co. Monaghan, early yesterday morning by Customs officials. Among the goods seized were over 100 bottles of brandy, gin and wine, packed in seven new suit-cases. They were found in a hut erected in the cemetery in connection with repairs to the church. Two large bales of binder-twine and about 30lb. of tea were also found. The original spirit cases found bore the name of a Dublin firm, while there were butter-boxes with the name of a Monaghan co-operative creamery, and empty tea packets with the name of a Cookstown firm.

BRIQUETTES FOR SPEED

Live-stock trains on the Great Southern Railway lines will be speeded-up shortly, when the company's briquette-making plant at Broadstone is in operation.

Using as material turf, timber, duff, smokebox-ash and a proportion of native coal from Athy and Rossmore, the plant is expected to produce about 100 tons of briquettes a day. At present manufacturing the briquettes by hand at Inchicore, they account for 20 per cent. of the total quantity of fuel used. The new plant will increase the percentage to 40 (the pre-war fuel consumption figure being about 5,000 tons a week).

SOME DIVERGENT CRITICISMS

"THE most important contemporary painter of sacred subjects"—Count Michael de la Bedoyere.

"Offensive to Christian sentiment"—Mrs. Kathleen Clarke.

"Suitable for the Municipal Gallery"—Mr. Dermod O'Brien, P.R.H.A.

These contrasting views of the work of Georges Rouault were collected by our reporter yesterday. He was making inquiries consequent on the rejection, as announced in yesterday's Irish Times, of a Rouault picture, "Christ and the Soldier," by the Dublin Municipal Gallery, to whom it had been offered by The Friends of the National Collections. Mr. Dermod O'Brien, President of the Royal Hibernian Academy, and a member of the advisory committee of the Municipal Gallery, said that he had voted for the acceptance of the picture. He could not understand the attitude of some opponents of the picture, who maintained that it was blasphemous. He could understand some people thinking it was grotesque, but then these people should also think that any piece of early Christian painting was grotesque. He did not see any grounds for stating that it was irreverent, or that the artist had any intention of being irreverent.

In favouring the acceptance of the picture he had in mind the intention of Sir Hugh Lane when the gallery was projected. The gallery was founded as a gallery of modern art, and as such it should have examples of the work of men who had made a name as leaders of modern art, even if some people did not like or understand their work. He himself was not an admirer of many of the modern French artists, and frankly could not understand some of them. But Rouault had come into fame as a painter, and he thought that the gallery should have an example of his work.

UNUSUAL

Mrs. Kathleen Clarke, former Lord Mayor of Dublin and a member of the Advisory Committee, said that she had been the strongest objector to the acceptance of the picture. The painting, she said, gave us Christ in an unusual way and it might be taken as a travesty, and, as this is a Christian country, it would be offensive to put it on exhibition in a public gallery. She was especially afraid about its effect on young people. The Corporation members of the Advisory Committee had a responsibility to the public in deciding on the exhibition of such works, and in the light of that responsibility she could not vote for its acceptance. Even if she were assured by the Friends of the National Collection that it was the greatest work of art in the world, she would still maintain her attitude; but she had said that she would support the acceptance of any other work by this artist. "This work, however, offended me as a Catholic and as a Christian," she added.

"Christ and the Soldier," by Georges Rouault. The above photograph of the picture rejected by the Dublin Municipal Gallery gives the design of the picture, but does not, of course, give an idea of the colour work of the original.

APPRECIATIONS

The picture, our reporter learned, was the only Rouault picture in a large exhibition of all the leading modern French artists held in the Leicester Galleries in London last January. Here is a selection of opinions from English art critics. The Studio, a monthly magazine devoted to art, selected it for reproduction in its March issue. Its critic, Jan Gordon, mentioned it first among three pictures which he said were the outstanding pieces of the exhibition. John Piper, writing about it in The Spectator of January 16, said: "Rouault is a painter whose work is more significent now than ever. He is, among other things, the only painter alive who has found forms convincing enough and imposing enough to set beside mediæval variations on Christian themes."

Count Michael de la Bedoyere, who recently lectured in Dublin, writing in the Catholic Herald (of which he is editor) on March 27, said: "Rouault is generally acknowledged to be the most important, as he is certainly the most striking of contemporary painters of sacred subjects. . . . Rouault belongs to no acknowledged school, except that he shares the general sense of the best artists of our time, that the old conventions are useless, and that he must find the most direct means of creating that which he feels to be in him to give."

'PLANE CRASH IN VILLAGE

Ten persons lost their lives in an inferno that enveloped rows of cottages in the village of Somersham, Huntingdonshire, on Monday night, after a British 'plane, in flames, had crashed in it.

The 'plane was seen circling in difficulty before it crashed into one row of cottages, carrying away the roofs, smashed through another row, and came to rest against a third. The crew baled out and landed safely. Six cottages were wrecked.

The dead include a widow, aged 63; her daughter, aged 23, and the latter's baby; a widow, aged 70; her son, aged 44; a widow, aged 74, and her widowed daughter, aged 47; a widow, aged 67—an evacuee from Norwich; another woman, aged 68, and a girl of 15.

Other members of those families are in hospital. One woman dashed from her blazing cottage, her clothes on fire, and the girl's clothes were burning when she was found. Both died in hospital.

The cottages on both sides of the village became a mass of flames, said one who saw the tragedy to a Press Association reporter. It was hopeless to do anything for anyone who was trapped.

R.A.F. RAIDS ESSEN

On Monday night a strong force of British bombers attacked objectives in Western Germany. Ten aircraft are missing, states the Air Ministry.

The German News Agency says that Essen was the Royal Air Force target. It adds:—"Eight civilians were killed, two are missing, and several houses were destroyed."—(Reuter.)

Single aircraft of the British Bomber Command attacked targets in Western Germany and Holland in daylight yesterday. No aircraft is missing from these operations.

U.S. WARSHIP SUNK—Rome

LONDON, Tuesday.—Rome Radio reported that an Italian submarine early to-day sank an American battleship off the Mississippi class.

The announcement said that the submarine concerned was the one which earlier sank the United States battleship, Maryland.

The Mississippi class vessel was seen to sink after receiving four torpedo hits forward, about 300 miles off Freetown, West Africa.—(Reuter.)

Rome announced later that the battleship sunk was the Idaho.

DUBLIN STOCK MARKETS BOOM

The boom conditions which have been evident in the Dublin Stock Exchange recently reached a new level yesterday, when quotations showed a general, and, in some cases, pronounced advance, while the volume of business was on a definitely higher plane.

The experience of the past week tended to confirm the view that some investors are seeking better yields than those obtainable from more sedate investments.

Excited dealings took place yesterday in Home Rails, and strong buying sent prices soaring. Outstanding movements of the week were rises of 4¾ and 4¼ in G.N.R. Pref. and Guaranteed stocks, respectively. G.S.R. issues were also in the limelight, the Ord. and Pref. showing gains of 2¾ and 2½ compared with last Tuesday.

Guinness Ord. were the star turn in a buoyant and busy Industrial market. The £1 units, which rose a further 3s. 6d. to 112s. yesterday, were 8s. 9d. higher on the week. This is the best price reached since 1939.

E. and J. Burke issues came into demand on the good showing made by the annual report. The Pref. shares advanced 2s. to 5s. Drapery shares were prominent in the week's advance, notably Cannock Ord., which jumped half a crown.

British securities advanced steadily, and in some directions sharply.

DUBLIN MAN AND R.U.C.

In the Northern Ireland House of Commons yesterday Mr. Midgley asked the Minister for Home Affairs if it was true that Mr. M. Beattie, a Dublin solicitor, had been interrogated by a R.U.C. constable on September 6 in Enniskillen, and told that he had no right to be there; was it a fact that Mr. Beattie had a passport and was entitled to be there; and whether, in view of what had taken place, any action had been taken with regard to the responsibility for it.

Mr. Lowry replied that Mr. Beattie was asked to produce an approved document of identity, and after some hesitation he produced a travel permit issued in Eire. The action was properly taken by the Constabulary, who showed courtesy to Mr. Beattie, and did not tell him that he had no right to be in Enniskillen.

The first 20,000 Germans from Bosnia, Herzegovina and Slovenia to be repatriated under the agreement with Croatia will leave on Thursday, says the German News Agency.

URGED TEACHING OF IRISH

SCHOOL HEAD'S DISMISSAL

STRABANE and Castlederg Regional Education Committee passed yesterday, by a party vote of 14 to 3, a motion for the dismissal of Mr. T. J. Carroll, Principal of the Strabane Technical School. Mr. J. T. Gamble, M.P., had referred to a letter, written by Mr. Carroll to the Committee at the last meeting urging the teaching of Irish in the school, which he considered insulting and impertinent, and he proposed, and Mr. R. A. Campbell seconded, the motion for dismissal.

The Ministry of Education, in reply to the Committee, stated that Irish was included as an approved subject of instruction in some of the technical schools in Northern Ireland, as was permitted under regulations. Mr. Carroll wrote that 106 residents had made a demand for Irish classes. The demand was a legal one.

Mr. J. S. Crockett proposed, and Mr. T. Houston seconded, that the committee, being convinced that the application for Irish classes did not express the spontaneous desire of the signatories, decline to recommend the teaching of Irish.

NATIONALISTS GO

Mr. A. Gallagher, D.L., proposing that a class be established, asked why did they oppose Irish.

The Chairman (Captain J. C. Herdman, D.L.) asked what percentage of the educated population of Eire could speak Irish or used it from choice. It was a noticeable fact that the Christian Brothers' schools did not confine themselves to teaching Irish to pupils for the Eire Civil Service, but specialised also in passing boys into the British Imperial Civil Service, as evidenced by the large percentage of Catholics in local post offices. He and his colleagues intended to ignore the regulation quoted by Mr. Carroll.

Mr. Gallagher said he was not going to be ruled by the Orange Order in Strabane, and as a protest his colleagues and he himself would leave the meeting. "You can record the resignation of the Catholics of Strabane from this meeting," he added.

Mr. Gamble said he would vote against starting Irish classes, because Irish was of no service in Northern Ireland.

When the Nationalists left the meeting Mr. Crockett's motion was carried.

OATMEAL PRICES

EFFECT ON BABY-FOOD

Legal advice is being sought by baby-food manufacturers, the Irish Times understands, after the publication yesterday of the Order fixing the maximum prices of flake oatmeal and oatmeal.

Manufacturers of patent groats are wondering whether the effect of the Order will be to freeze their existing stocks, because they cannot profitably sell at the controlled retail price of 9s. 4d.—and after a lengthy and costly process—a stone of oatmeal, of which the selling price was formerly £1 3s 4d.

"The drop in our allowed price from 1s. 8d. a pound to something under 5d. a pound cannot be regarded as a mere reduction," said a director of Messrs. G. H. Darmyth and Co., Ltd., to an Irish Times reporter yesterday. "Is it, in effect," he asked, "evidence of the Government's view that baby-food is an unnecessary article, and should not be manufactured?" His firm, he added, were consulting their legal advisers to see what exactly the position was.

The wholesale price of flake oatmeal, he pointed out, has also been increased to £35 10s. a ton, when bought in the cheapest possible manner, and the selling price, reckoned under the Order, gives only £42 13s. 4d. in return.

Following the publication of the Order yesterday, manufacturers applied for a ruling on their position to the Department of Supplies, and were informed that they "may make an application to have the case considered." They maintain that by the time this is done their businesses would not be worth carrying on.

CHANNEL FIGHT

E-BOAT BLOWN UP

"In an engagement off the Belgian coast at about midnight on Monday units of our light coastal forces attacked a strong force of enemy torpedo boats and E-boats," says a British Admiralty communiqué. "One E-boat was set on fire and was subsequently seen to blow up. One of our craft is missing and some others sustained superficial damage. With the exception of the missing boat, our casualties were very light. The next-of-kin are being informed as soon as possible."

FIRE RINGS 'PHONE

IRISH FAMILY'S ESCAPE

The mysterious ringing of a house telephone saved the lives of Mr. John F. Cahill, of Cavan; his wife—formerly Miss Mary Curtin, of Middleton, Co. Cork—and their two boys, aged 7 and 5, when fire, caused by a short circuit, broke out at Mooney's Irish House, in the Strand, London, at 12.25 a.m. yesterday.

Mr. Cahill, the manager, was going to bed, when he heard the telephone ringing, and halfway down the stairs he was met by thick smoke and rapidly-spreading flames. He rushed to the balcony over the Strand and attracted the attention of a policeman, who summoned the Fire Brigade. Thus he got his family out. "Five more minutes and it would have been too late," he told an Irish Times reporter. The telephone was probably set off by the fire.

NEW GUINEA RAIDS

LONDON, Tuesday.—Australian troops in the Owen Stanley mountains, New Guinea, have reached Kagi and Myola, ten miles from Kokoda, which the Japanese hold.

Flying Fortresses raided New Britain aerodromes and hit runways and dispersal areas. Four Japanese 'planes sent up to beat off the attack were shot down. One Allied 'plane failed to return. Twelve Japanese fighters intercepted Allied 'planes which made attacks on shipping off Buna. Three of the fighters were shot down.—Reuter.

POSITION OF IRISH SHIPPING

GREAT INSURANCE SCHEME

A NEW scheme of Irish marine insurance, at present confined in character and extent, but likely to be the forerunner of a national marine insurance scheme for an Irish mercantile marine service, has been launched by Government-subsidised, non-profit-making Irish Shipping, Ltd.

Confined at present to the vessels owned by Irish Shipping, Ltd., and restricted in scope to war risks insurance, the new undertaking has had immediate reactions on foreign quotations for Irish shipping, the war risk rate on the British market having dropped from 10 per cent. to 7½ per cent.

Sufficient financial backing is being afforded the plan by Irish Shipping, Ltd., to enable the scheme to be launched without Government subsidy, and, apart from the fact that it will mean the retention of considerable sums of money in this country, which formerly were going abroad, it will have the advantage of freeing Irish shipping interests from the foreign insurance rates—at one period the war risk insurance rates on cargoes destined for Irish ports were the highest in the world—and of enabling Irish shipping to maintain its North Atlantic trade without interruption, even in the event of this country's communications temporarily being cut off by the development of hostilities.

AFTER 150 YEARS

It is 150 years since native underwriting firms in marine insurance did business in this country, the last traces of them being as far back as 1790. At present a very considerable volume of war risk insurance business relating to Irish shipping is being transacted by Irish brokers with Lloyds and othe. London marine insurance underwriters, and the terms of the Irish undertaking will be identical with the British clauses. In other words, the cover created by Irish Shipping, Ltd., will be identical with that effected with Lloyds' underwriters or Marine Insurance Corporation. In addition to Irish Shipping, Ltd., there are three commercial lines operating in this country, whose vessels are engaged largely on the Lisbon-Eire trade. These ships will not, for the present, be covered by the new insurance, which will apply strictly to the ships of Irish Shipping engaged on the North Atlantic route. Irish brokers already are in possession of the Irish war risk rates, and business will be placed at once. Having regard to the fact that all cargo interests carried in the North Atlantic ships will be handled by Irish Shipping, it is virtually certain that war-risk insurance business involved will be transferred to the Irish underwriters.

The break-away from external control in war-risk insurance rates will mean that Irish ships will be, to a large extent, independent of the reactions on rates caused by conditions in the Atlantic, and will not have to follow foreign rating irrespective of whether our risks are better or not than those of other countries. In the earlier stages of the war Ireland-bound ships had to bear the highest rating in the world, and it was only in the last six months that the rate applying to them, which had sprung from 5 per cent. to 20 per cent., were brought into line with United Kingdom rating. The rate recently quoted was 10 per cent., but co-incident with the formation of the Irish scheme the rate dropped to 7½ per cent., which is the quotation offered by Irish Shipping, and it is anticipated that this reduced rate shortly will be applied to Irish ships.

There has been considerable activity in British marine insurance circles transacting business with this country in the last few days, in anticipation of the Irish development.

BOMB THROWN IN BELFAST

SIX PERSONS HURT

A bomb thrown at policemen in Belfast late last night injured four constables and two children. The policemen are Constables Kague, Hoey, Davidson and Thompson; and the children are John Langan, Leeson street, and Cyril McCrest, Milan street. The constables were standing at the corner of Raglan and Osman streets when the bomb was thrown. It was during the black-out, and the place was very dark. No arrests had been made up to a late hour.

Constable Davidson and the boy Langan were detained in hospital, but the others were discharged.

NEW IRISH PAPAL COUNT

MONSIGNOR JAMES TROY, a native of Listowel, Co. Kerry, has been created simultaneously a Papal Count and a Knight Commander of the Holy Sepulchre.

The career of the new fifty-five-year-old Count, who is at present serving as chaplain with the United States Army, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, has included adventures ranging from service with both the United States Army and Navy during World War 1, to risky sojourns behind the Communist lines in China.

In the United States he is known as "The Church Builder of the Middle West," with a record of six churches built in six consecutive years. At the age of twenty-four, Monsignor Troy went to the United States, where he became Parish Priest of Des Moisnes, Iowa. When America entered the war in 1916 he joined as a chaplain and served with both Army and Navy. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre by the King of the Belgians.

After the war he took up Catholic social work in Poland, and later worked in India and China for the American Society for the Propagation of the Faith. He has two brothers in the priesthood in the United States, a sister in Listowel, and a third brother is the Rev. Michael C. Troy, C.C., Dublin.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The number of notified cases of infantile paralysis in the twenty-six counties since July has risen to 114 and deaths to 22.

Last week, according to a statement by the Local Government Department, there were eight new cases in Dublin City and 13 in the rest of the country—a total of 21 for the week, compared with 24 for the preceding week. Of seven further deaths recorded, three were in the City of Dublin.

"Although the position in Dublin is not as satisfactory as in the previous week, the outbreak would appear to be checked," the statement adds. "The necessary precautions against any further spread are, however, being strictly maintained."

THIS PLAN WILL BRING YOU

£240 A YEAR FOR LIFE FROM AGE 55

Most men have to provide for their own future. They have no rich relative to take the burden from their shoulders, and no business pension scheme to fall back upon. They stand or fall on their own efforts.

Are you satisfied with the progress you yourself are making? Have you saved anything like enough to justify a belief that at 55 years of age you will be in a position to take things more easily? What about your family should you, on whom they depend, be taken from them? The plan about to be explained, if adopted without further delay, will relieve you of all anxiety about the matter.

It is the best, the easiest and the surest way of providing both for your own later years and for your dependents.

Assuming your age to be 35 and you would like to provide for a private income of £240 a year for life commencing at age 55, this is how the plan works out. You make monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly deposits of an agreed sum to the Sun Life of Canada, the great Annuity Company, and you get in return:

£240 a Year for Life

At 55 years of age the Sun Life of Canada will start paying you an income for life of £240 per annum, and you'll receive this income every year as long as you live. Or, if you prefer it, you can have £3,525 plus profits in lieu of the pension.

Income Tax Saved

For every deposit you make you receive rebate of Income Tax—a concession which will save you a considerable sum during the period. This is additional profit on the transaction.

£2,000 for Your Family

Should you not live to the age of 55, £2,000, plus accumulated profits, will be paid to your family

Any Age, Any Amount

Though 35 and £240 a year for life have been quoted here, the plan may be varied to suit other ages and to provide larger or smaller incomes. Whatever amount you can save (from £1 a month) for your own and family's future, this plan is the safest and most profitable you can adopt.

The Plan is Flexible

Supposing that after making deposits for two years or more you found yourself temporarily unable to continue, there is provision to help you. The Company would, in that event, automatically advance your overdue deposit and keep the plan in force, allowing you a certain time to bring your deposits up to date. The longer the plan has been in force the longer this time would be.

£204,000,000 Assets

The Sun Life of Canada has assets of over £204,000,000. It is the largest Company of the British Empire transacting Life Assurance solely. Do not hesitate, therefore, to send for particulars of this plan, which may mean great things for you and yours.

When Fifty has to work like Thirty

It is when a sense of duty must override a natural inclination to take things easy that the revitalizing power of a course of 'Phyllosan' tablets is most fully appreciated.

Mrs. ——'s letter is typical of many: "I have greatly benefited from 'Phyllosan' tablets. I was feeling tired and overstrained and had very little energy, but now I feel like a different being! Better in fact than for some years, and can do a much heavier day's work than previously, without feeling so tired at the end of it."

We say again that, if you take 'Phyllosan' tablets regularly, we believe the results will astonish you.

POINTERS TO IRISH CESAREWITCH

By Our Racing Correspondent.

The great race for the Irish Cambridgeshire at the Curragh last Saturday will long be remembered as an outstanding event in a season of very interesting racing. The odds of 5 to 1 against the field and the victory of a rank outsider show how well the handicapper did his work. The success of the race suggests that more big handicaps should be run during the season. When comparison is made with the classic races there can be no question as to which makes more appeal to the public. It is not suggested that classic races should be dropped; they serve a useful purpose, but, as regards providing excitement and good entertainment for the public, a big handicap is certainly the more attractive form of race. How many times have we seen an odds-on favourite canter home an easy winner of a classic race in which betting has been negligible?

It can be argued that betting does not count, but the plain fact is that the big majority of racegoers would stay at home if it were not for the fact that the opportunity for a mild flutter is afforded. It is a matter that, I am sure, will be discussed before the Racing Commission at one or other of its sittings.

As was the case with last Saturday's race, the Irish Cesarewitch, to be run on Saturday, October 31st, is certain to be another big draw. Hitherto the distance of this back-end handicap was one mile and six furlongs, but on this occasion the staying power of the various runners will be put to an even greater test with an extra two furlongs added. I have always regarded all the Curragh courses, ranging from five furlongs to two miles and a half, as stiffer than the corresponding distances at any other venue, and the horse that wins the Cesarewitch will have stamped himself as a genuine stayer.

The running in the Irish Cambridgeshire sometimes gives a pointer to the chances of horses also engaged in the long-distance event, and, from what was shown in last Saturday's race, the one that stood out as a stayer was the winner, King Kling, who will have to shoulder a 10lb. penalty and carry 9st. 2lb., a very stiff impost for a three years old. King Kling pulled out his best effort in the last half furlong, and gave one the impression that the further he had to go the easier would he win.

The Irish Cesarewitch never has been won by a three years old carrying more than 8st. 4lb., the weight carried by Little Marten in 1922. Anniversary, also the property of Mr. Myerscough, has earned a 5lb. penalty by virtue of his narrow victory in the Royal Whip, and he, also a three years old, will have to carry 9st. 2lb. One that is bound to be well fancied is Fairest, who finished third a neck and a head behind Anniversary and Sword Knot in the Whip, over a mile and a half, and now will have a pull of 19lb. with Mr. Myerscough's colt. Sword Knot is not amongst the entries, but Dunseverick is, and will have a pull of 10lb. in the weights with King Kling. First acceptances are due for the race to-day, and the second on October 21st.

CLOSING OF ENTRIES

Entries close to-day with Mr. F. Harold Clarke, 9 Hume street, Dublin, for six races at the Leopardstown first November meeting.

ANOTHER SENIOR RUGBY CLUB FOR DUBLIN

Curragh, who last season won the Provincial Towns Cup, will this season play senior Rugby in Dublin. Being an all-army team, they will be known as Curragh Command, and will take part in the Leinster Senior Cup competition.

Mr. J. L. McLoughlin, the hon. secretary, revealed this in his report to the annual general meeting of the Leinster Branch of the Irish Rugby Football Union at Jury's Hotel yesterday.

As the club's application had come too late to allow them to be included in the official fixture list, he appealed to Dublin clubs to arrange games with them whenever they had a blank day.

Changes were made in the rules governing the Metropolitan Cup competition, which in future will commence in November (instead of January) and will be spread over the whole season.

It was suggested that the Rugby Union were not doing their utmost to arrange attractive matches for Dublin, and it was decided to bring this matter to their attention with a view to getting a match with a cross-Channel team played in Dublin this season.

A former Lansdowne international player and member of the "Big Five," Mr. N. Purcell was elected president, in succession to Dr. H. Michael. He assured delegates that he would do his utmost to see that country clubs got every assistance.

E. C. G. Mulherne was re-elected hon. treasurer and J. L. McLoughlin hon. secretary.

The junior section re-elected Frank Conroy as hon. secretary and made the following appointments:—Representatives to Executive Committee—W. Ritchie and E. J. McCarthy. Junior Committee—Above, with E. Daly, J. Boucher and P. O'Neill.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Tuesday.—Considerable hesitancy was apparent in the early dealings, and, while scattered favourites were a shade ahead, declines predominated at mid-day. The extreme declines were reduced in the late trading, and an assortment of Utilities recorded advances; but the market closed easy.

The turnover of 701,000 shares comprised 805 issues, of which 316 advanced, 265 declined and 224 remained unchanged.—Reuter.

IRISH INDUSTRIALS BOOMING
EXCITED DEALINGS IN DUBLIN

By Our Financial Correspondent.

ON the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday boom-like conditions prevailed among Irish securities, and in some groups excitement reached fever heights. Prices made fresh headway, and mostly closed on a strong note.

In the early dealings there was spirited demand for Guinness units, and they soared 3s. 6d. to 112s., but looked small sellers at the close; the Pref. moved up to 15⅜. Cairnes Ord. shaded off to 19s. 10½d.

Wild scenes took place in the Railway market, where continued buying forced prices still higher. Great Northern Ord. rose to 25, the Pref. spurted 2¼ points to 48, and the Deb. advanced a point to 76. Great Southern Ord. strengthened 2¾ points to 18, the Pref. two points to 23, and the Gtd. (City of Dublin Junct.) spurted three points to 80. The Deb. closed two points higher at 66.

Home Government Funds held up well, apart from the 3¼ p.c. National Security, which eased to 106¼. 3½ p.c. War Loan drooped to 106. Corporation stocks held steady.

Banks were buyers for choice, and Bank of Ireland stock gained 1½ points at 335, while Hibernians improved to 43s. 9d. and Nationals to 42s.

The E. J. Burke report was well received in market circles, and the Pref. jumped 2s. to 5s. and the Deb. 4s. to 97s. 6d., while the Def. firmed up to ninepence.

Alliance Gas Ord. hardened to 19s. 7½d., but Pim Bros. Pref. fell 1s. 1½d. to 20s. Cement Ord. added pence at 35s., and the Deb. was raised to 108½. Dolphin Hotel Ord. changed hands up to 50s., whereas the last official dealing price was around 22s. Smyth and Co. Ord. advanced 1s. 3d. to 20s. 3d., but Irish Cinema Ord. slipped back to 3s. 1d.

Textiles were better for choice. Bradford Dyers Ord. and Coats Ord. tended higher, but Courtaulds slipped back to 41s. 3d. Imperial Tobacco Ord. held 137s. 3d., and B.A.T. Ord. quoted 86s. 6d. Imperial Chemical Ord. rose to 35s. 1½d., but Shell Transport Ord. gave way to 53s. 1½d., and Mexican Eagle Oil quoted 11s. 6d.

WAVE OF OPTIMISM IN LONDON

By Our Financial Correspondent.

LONDON, Tuesday.

THE early part of the week has seen a sensational expansion in Stock Market activity. The atmosphere of the "House" generally is cheerful owing to the more hopeful views about the course of the war, and prices in several sections notably Home Rails and Industrials have risen in response to the increased demand from people buying for higher current yield and capital appreciation, while the firmness is accentuated by the market shortage of stock. There is now more stock coming to market as the result of profit-taking, but it is quickly absorbed by fresh buyers.

Dealings recorded in the Stock Exchange lists on Monday reached 6,426, the highest since the present official system was commenced in June last and it appears to have been the most active day since the period of complacency in the early part of 1940.

Dealings to-day totalled 6,166, which marks a substantial advance on last Tuesday's total of 4,163. Whether the wave of optimism will carry prices still higher, it is impossible to say, but markets are always likely to be adversely affected by disappointing war news. On the other hand, in view of the market shortage of stock, more favourable news would help to support values.

Home Rails have become decidedly more popular, and apparently the demand comes from the general public, who at last appear to be noticing the satisfactory yields given by Ordinary and Preference stocks under the Government Rental Scheme, but there were indications to-day of a halt in the advance. Great Western Ordinary, for example, rose 2½ points last week to 50, further advancing yesterday to 51, and to-day to 51½, from which there was a slight reaction to 51¼.

The demand for selected Industrials continues. Breweries were prominently firm, the feature being Guinness, which yesterday rose 3/6, and gained another 2/3 to-day at 111/3. Woolworth, Marks and Spencer, Great Universal and other Stores were also supported, and various Iron, Steel and Engineering, Textile and Motor issues also improved. Other firm features included British Oxygen, Turner and Newall, Indo China Steam Deferred, and Cable and Wireless Ordinary. But, although the leading Tobaccos have held most of last week's gains, there has been no further improvement.

British Funds, although quietly firm, received less support than other groups, but Banking shares were wanted, including English and Overseas.

In the more speculative groups, higher prices were recorded for various Rubber, Tea and South African Gold issues. Still another feature is a revival of interest in Argentine Rails, but Brazilian Bonds remain quiet.

SOCCER TEAM OF THE MOMENT

A SERIOUS situation has developed for League of Ireland clubs as the result of the Order prohibiting the use of taxis for travelling to sporting fixtures, including, of course, football matches. The matter will be discussed in all its bearings at to-night's meeting at headquarters.

The Order limits the engagement of taxis to fifty miles, and, unless special facilities are granted to enable clubs to travel from Cork and Limerick to Dublin and vice versa, they would have no alternative but to use the much restricted rail and 'bus services. That would mean a clear loss of two days, and heavy additional expenses, and it is doubtful if the clubs in the long run would be able to stand the strain.

The first of the semi-finals for the Leinster Senior Cup, the oldest competition this side of the border, will be played this day week at Dalymount Park between Shamrock Rovers and St. James's Gate. In the event of a draw, the re-play has been fixed for October 28th. In the other semi-final the holders, Distillery, come up against Drumcondra at Shelbourne Park on October 21st, and, if a re-play is necessary, it will take place on November 4th.

They are two attractive games, and, while it is probable that Rovers again will reach the final round, the result of the other tie has a very open appearance. As a matter of fact, judged by their exhibition against the Rovers last week, end, Drumcondra would seem to have an excellent chance of putting out the holders.

The team of the moment is Drumcondra, and the holding capacity of Tolka Park should be severely taxed next Sunday when they line out against Dundalk. There is but one point between them in the table, Dundalk being level with Bohemians at the top, and, as they are the only teams that have not been beaten in the competition, it should be a rousing struggle. Dundalk are nothing like as powerful a side as they were last season, when they won the F.A.I. Cup, whereas Drumcondra are rapidly improving, both in defence and attack, and the possibility of the home team defeating the Cupholders cannot be overlooked.

The game at Shelbourne Park on Saturday between Shelbourne and Rovers is another that should be productive of a keen struggle. Last Sunday at Milltown Rovers lost a thrilling match to Drumcondra by 7-5. Against the Tolka Park team their defence, for once in a while, was weak, but it is not often that Palmer and those immediately in front of him are caught napping. Fixtures:—

Saturday—Shelbourne v. Rovers, at Shelbourne Park.

Sunday—Drumcondra v. Dundalk, at Tolka Park; Cork United v. Bohemians, at Cork; St. James's Gate v. Brideville, at Crumlin; Bray Unknowns v. Limerick, at Bray.

It may seem far-fetched at this stage of the season to predict such a happening; but should Drumcondra finish at the top of the League of Ireland and gain other distinction in the meantime, those responsible for the management of the Inter-City Cup tournament would find themselves in a predicament. The Tolka Park club is one of the "rejects" of that management; with Limerick, St. James's Gate and Brideville they made a proposal to the effect that the leading six teams in the League should take part in the tournament, but it was turned down.

Drumcondra is one of the strongest sides in the Shield, and as the season progresses may improve. It is also on the cards that another club which was very prominent in the Inter-City Cup competition last season may not be so much in the limelight during the present campaign; indeed, there may be serious upheavals.

Anything may occur to alter completely the position as it existed at the end of last season and as it affected the leading clubs, not only in the League of Ireland, but in the Northern Regional League as well. Perhaps it would have been a wiser move if the people responsible for the organising of the Inter-City Cup competition had delayed making their decision until the close of each tournament. It would be nothing short of an absurdity were the League of Ireland to be won by one of the "outsiders," who at the end of it all would find themselves lookers-on during the fight for the big money next May.

BOXING TOURNAMENTS CLASH

By P. D. MacWEENEY.

Two boxing programmes will be staged in Dublin next Friday night; the Arbour Hill club have an amateur tournament at the National Stadium, while Mr. Stuart Fielding is promoting a professional programme at the Rotunda Cinema.

It is not an easy matter to fill one house for boxing these days, much less two. There may be a public for both amateur and professional boxing in Dublin, but hardly on the same night. However, both these events have their attractions, so I may prove to be a gloomy prophet.

The Arbour Hill club have a real top-liner in the bantam-weight bout, between W. Lenihan and Corporal M. Colbert. Two years ago Lenihan emerged from junior ranks with an unbeaten record and proceeded to master all the opposition among the seniors, ending up with a comfortable journey through the Irish bantam-weight championship. Last season he dropped out of boxing at an early stage, studies preventing him from doing regular training, and, in his absence, Colbert succeeded him in the title. It is fitting that he should reappear now for his own club's tournament, and I think that, despite his lengthy lay-off, he will defeat his rival on Friday night.

We have had few amateurs who punch so cleanly and coolly as Lenihan; he is generally the aggressor in his fights, but he has the skill to turn defence into attack at the slightest opportunity, and, so far, he has proved to be in a higher class than anyone else in the division.

The remainder of the programme is extremely attractive. The young junior feather-weights, Coughlan and Byrne, had a couple of splendid bouts last season, and later on they may offer the stiffest opposition to the reigning champion, A. Delahunt, who is also in the programme, tackling one of his most dangerous rivals in W. Gifford. The latter beat Delahunt at an early stage of last season, and may do so again this time.

Another bantam who is re-appearing after a long absence is J. McGauran, who meets the fast and aggressive T. Christy.

In the light-weight class, Charlie Ingle, who is improving rapidly, has a real test before him in tackling K. Doyle, who should also make an impression as a senior this season. The hard-hitting P. Finnegan is likely to worry, if not beat, T. Foran. The St. Andrew's man has a big chance of collecting the senior title, which has eluded him rather unluckily in the past.

In the middle-weight division, M. Coffey is still more than useful, and it will be interesting to see whether his hefty swings will upset G. Dwyer, a youngster with big possibilities and a really good straight left.

The trump card at the Rotunda is, of course, the first appearance of Jimmy Ingle as a professional. Last season I thought Ingle was showing a falling-off; he had certainly slowed down, yet his defeat by G. Kilcullen in the championship final was by the narrowest of margins, and a couple of weeks ago he was most impressive in out-boxing J. McCormack at the Stadium. His opponent on Friday will be Chuck Flanagan, of Belfast, a contender for the Northern Ireland welter-weight championship, about whose capabilities I have no information at the time of writing. It is probable, however, that Ingle, always in good physical condition, would beat almost any of the Irish professionals at present, even though the rounds will prove a severe test of his stamina.

The other big feature will be Pat Mulcahy, of Dublin, against Pat Flynn, of Belfast. Mulcahy appears to be anxious to, and capable of, taking anyone on from middle to heavy-weight, and he certainly is a tremendously hard hitter, so Flynn is likely to spend a busy evening. The three supporting contests all have an inter-city flavour, and are as follows:—Eddie Downey (Dublin) v. Jack Casey (Belfast); Tommy Upton (Dublin) v. Jim Doran (Belfast); Siki O'Neill (Dublin) v. Jim O'Brien (Belfast).

Eddie Chandler has followed Ingle into professional ranks, and will have his first fight in his new rôle against the smart Belfast lad, Billy Smith, on Friday week. Smith recently knocked out the Welshman, Taffy Davis, in the second round.

NEW TRAINER FOR MR. BENSON

Mr. Martin H. Benson's trainer next season will be the Hon. G. Lambton. Mr. Benson will send only four horses to him—Lady Sybil, who is possibly the best two-year-old of the season; Society Lady, Careless Talk and Lord Bobs. The last-named is a yearling brother to Lady Sybil, and a lot is thought of him. The rest of Mr. Benson's horses will be sold at Newmarket in December. W. Pratt, who now trains Mr. Benson's horses, does not wish to become a public trainer.

BUSY TIME FOR DUBLIN FOOTBALLERS

(BY PAT'O.)

Dublin footballers are in brisk demand for tournament, local defence and charity games. With the exception of P. Kennedy (resting an injured ankle), the full champion side travel to Dundalk to meet Louth. John Murphy (Civil Service), who shone against Mackens, takes the full-back position.

A week later Dublin and Meath meet at Croke Park in the final of the North Leinster League. The Oireachtas game against Cavan follows, and rumour is busy about a challenge game between a full Kerry side and the champions in aid of a Dublin church fund. Dublin's Senior League final between Civil Service and St. Mary's, Saggart, promises a sparkling game, for both teams are playing on top of their form just now.

Prompt completion of the All-Ireland championships have given counties opportunity to complete their home programmes. Hitherto many county programmes carried on to the new year, with consequent loss of interest. All progressive counties should aim at prompt finishes to their programmes whilst interest is keen.

The merits and demerits of collective training for semi-finals and finals are again being discussed. Galway's well-known official, Mr. J. J. Nestor, President of the Connaught Council, is convinced that the collective training by the Galway team at Ballinasloe was a definite failure. Laoighis, on a memorable occasion at Portlaoighise; Kildare at Celbridge; Cavan, Tipperary, Kerry and Waterford all have found intensive collective training a failure. Amateur players are thrown out of their usual routine, without their usual food and recreation. Too often the sudden change of habits and exercises has a detrimental effect on elasticity and stamina.

The Young Irelands v. Eoghan Ruadh game at Croke Park will provide a treat for hurling lovers on Sunday morning. Neighbouring counties are already arranging for a revival of last year's successful competitions — four adjoining counties make an ideal group for winter leagues, with minimum travelling.

RECORD OUTPUT OF LAMPS

From a financial point of view, the year under review was one of the most difficult the company had experienced, said Mr. J. J. Walsh, chairman of Solus Teoranta, at the annual meeting in Dublin yesterday.

The chairman said that the actual reduction in profit, after providing for depreciation, was £2,856. The total outlay on experiments to produce material that it was impossible to import was £3,833, and £1,000 of it had been charged against the revenue for the year, leaving £2,833 to be written off against future years, which would reap the benefit of the experiments.

Never in the history of the company had output of finished lamps approached the present level, and that record output had every appearance of being maintained.

A final dividend at 5 per cent., less tax, on the paid-up Ordinary share capital, was passed, making 10 per cent., less tax, for the year.

Mr. M. W. O'Reilly said that the policy of the Government in the matter of excess profits was particularly short-sighted, and the operation of the Revenue Commissioners in the matter of allowances for depreciation was more short-sighted still. The excess profits tax was stultifying industry; companies were being drained of their profits, and there would be no industry if there were not sufficient reserves to enable them to take their places in the post-war period. Allowances were made for depreciation rather than for replacements.

COMPANY NEWS

E. and J. Burke, Ltd.—Profits of the parent company for the year ended April 30, 1942, amounted to £6,695, after payment of Debenture interest. The previous year's profits fell short of the full Debenture interest of £30,000 by £213. Taken collectively, profits of the U.S. companies, before depreciation of £8,630 (against £9,695) for the year to October 31, 1941, and after providing depreciation of £4,905 (against £4,563) on plant, were £3,725 (against £5,132). Carry forward £4,509 (against debit of £2,186). Pending the result of the settlement of the complicated taxation matters of the company and its subsidiaries, the directors have thought it prudent not to resume payment of Preference dividends, although the profit for the year would have permitted them to do so.

SEIZURE OF TOMMY GUNS
MAYO MEN SENTENCED

Further cases arising out of the discovery of Thompson machine-guns in Co. Mayo were heard yesterday by the Special Criminal Court at Collins Barracks, Dublin.

John Durkan, Carnacul, Swinford, Co. Mayo, was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment when found guilty of having control of a Thompson sub-machine-gun with intent to enable another person or persons to endanger life. He pleaded guilty to possession of the gun without a certificate. The Court ordered that the sentence be not enforced if he entered into bail of £50 to keep the peace for two years.

The evidence was that Guards visited the accused man on July 12th last. He led them to a wall, from which he removed some stones and handed them the gun. He then went into a field and produced an ammunition drum for the gun. He told them that he had been given the gun by Michael Geraghty, who had already been charged before the Court for possession of Thompson guns. A detective-sergeant stated that he believed Durken to have been a dupe of Geraghty.

Giving evidence, Durkan stated that he was not a member of any illegal organisation. He was afraid to report the fact that he had a gun.

The President said that the Court took a very serious view of the possession of firearms, and Thompson guns in particular. They were satisfied, however, that Durkan had been the dupe of others, and for this reason took a lenient view of the case.

The Court made a similar order in the case of Patrick Ryan, Treanfoughnane, Kiltimagh, Co. Mayo, who was found guilty of having under his control three Thompson guns, which, he said, had been given to him by Michael Geraghty. He pleaded guilty to having them without a firearms' certificate. Ryan said that he was not a member of any illegal organisation, and did not know how to use a Thompson gun.

The Court made a similar order in the case of Michael McManus, Johnsfort, Swinford, who pleaded guilty to having a Thompson gun in his possession without a certificate. He was found guilty of having the gun under his control with intent to enable another person or persons to endanger life. Evidence was that, when questioned by the Guards, McManus brought them to an unoccupied shed on an out-farm and pointed out the machine-gun, which was concealed in a hay rack. In a statement, he said that six weeks previously, while visiting the same shed, he saw two boxes, and, on opening one of them, discovered that they contained firearms. He took one of the guns and concealed it.

Winter

"Many of our men and women are so weak from under-nourishment that, even if employment were offered them, they could not undertake any kind of heavy work. Thousands of people are without sufficient personal and bed clothing. The never-ending struggle to provide food and clothing often results in non-payment of rents and the constant fear of eviction." These sentences form part of the printed appeal of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul; and their truth was confirmed by several speakers at last night's annual general meeting of the Society. Poor people died of hunger and cold in Dublin last winter; this winter, more are likely to die. Food is dearer than it has been within human memory, and the means to cook it are rationed. Coal is unobtainable; turf is too expensive for the poor man's purse, with the result that his family must shiver. Are the prosperous citizens of Dublin truly aware of this abundance of distress in their own city? Sometimes we doubt it. They have been told time and again—by the Press, from the pulpit, and by the spokesmen of the charitable societies—yet the fact does not seem to "register." Perhaps, they might be persuaded if some genius of a camera man could devote his talent to the production of a full-length film displaying, in full and naked detail, some of the distress that lurks behind the fine façades of Dublin's principal streets. In the meanwhile, we must hope that last night's appeal will open the purses of the well-to-do. Last year the St. Vincent de Paul Society relieved nearly 11,000 families at a cost of £34,000. Yet £34,000 is only a fraction of the sum which is needed. Even if the number of families in need of assistance were no larger during the coming winter, the necessities of every individual family would be far greater. State and local services can help; it is their duty, indeed, to supply the bulk of the food and fuel which will preserve the poor from death. Nevertheless, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul will have unbounded work to do, and its appeal to the generosity of citizens who have anything to spare demands an answer. Mr. Aodh de Blacam has made an interesting suggestion. He urges that a well-to-do family ought to "adopt" a poor family, and that a well-to-do locality ought to take a poor street under its protection. By such an arrangement, the donor actually could follow the results of his liberality from week to week, and would acquire a new sympathy with the sufferings of the city's poor. No Christian who maintains his faith can dare turn a blind eye to the destitution that, by all the signs, will be the lot of his brother in the slums. He must not try to quiet his conscience with the plea that "it is the Corporation's business"—or the Government's business. It is his business, too. There has been a claim upon private charity ever since Dublin rose from the marshes, and the claim is at its most insistent to-day.

Irish Bloodstock

When the French Army was collapsing and the British were being evacuated at Dunkirk—when the possibility of defeat was more serious than at any other time since the war began, horse-racing continued in England. As soon as the United States entered the war, racing was banned in some of the Western districts, and that ban has remained, even though not one bomb from an enemy 'plane has dropped on American territory. It would be ridiculous to measure a country's attitude to the war by its attitude to racing. If the English provinces enjoyed as great autonomy as the American States, it is conceivable that some of them would have had administrators who would have banned racing just as quickly as it was banned in California. In England, as in Ireland, racing enjoys a privileged position. It is part of the life of the country, backed by influential patrons, and regarded as an essential handmaid of a prosperous horse-breeding industry. In North America also racing has wealthy supporters, while in States like Kentucky and Maryland the horse is worshipped just as fervidly as in any part of Ireland; but from time to time the sport has been buffeted by legislation which has made its course an uneven one. Principally because of the shortages of transport facilities and of feeding stuffs, racing in England has suffered serious curtailment in the last twelve months, and in the coming winter there will be no steeplechasing whatsoever. In Ireland there has been a partial centralisation of racing, in order to save coal and petrol for essential transport services. These restrictions have had their effect upon the breeding industry, which also has been hit by the loss of such markets as existed in India, the Malay States, South Africa and elsewhere. The future never was more uncertain for thoroughbred breeders. Nevertheless, the results of recent bloodstock sales both at Newmarket and at Ballsbridge show that the racing industry is optimistic. At Ballsbridge the average prices were higher than at any time since 1939; at Newmarket a few weeks previously bloodstock was in keener demand than anybody had anticipated. These considerations increase in significance when they are set alongside the disappointing results of the great yearling sales at Saratoga, in the United States—particularly when it is recalled that a few weeks before the attack on Pearl Harbour an organ of American racing and breeding declared that "as a result of the havoc caused by the war in the European countries, the United States has automatically become the world's greatest thoroughbred horse-breeding country in the world." Irish authorities refused to accept that American viewpoint. In the last year mares of great performance and promise have been purchased for this country, increasing the strength of the Irish breeding industry and stimulating the chance that Ireland will be the reservoir from which a great deal of the world's racing stock will be drawn when the war ends.

BIGGER CLOTH OUTPUT

WEAVING INDUSTRY PLANS

A new development may shortly take place in the Irish woollen weaving industry, an Irish Times reporter learned yesterday, by the Government assuming a certain amount of direction of output, so as to secure an increased production of clothing materials. The big factor governing the supply of woollen clothing is that the Irish wool crop is usually about 18,000,000 pounds per year, of which 12,000,000 pounds might be made available for clothing, and the remainder goes to making carpets and other industrial uses. But the production of clothing is further complicated by the fact that two preliminary, but essential, processes in the making of the yarn had not generally been done in Irish factories. Thus, there was a shortage of machinery for the combing process necessary in making worsted yarns and for the carding process in making woollen yarns.

Attempts have been made to overcome these bottlenecks by the importation of machinery and by using available machinery, in some cases for as much as 24 hours per day. Considerable success has been obtained in this way, but the general position is far from being comfortable. As a result of these and other difficulties, only a proportion of the Irish wool available is being used for weaving. The rest is being exported, chiefly to the United States. The supply of woollen clothing generally available has also been affected by the big demands of the Army for their necessities. Further changes in the size of the Army would, of course, also affect the supplies available for civilians.

A small supply of woollen and worsted cloths—less than 15 per cent. of normal—has been coming in from Great Britain, but, even if this continues, it is doubtful if we shall be able to supply 50 per cent. of our normal needs of woollens and worsteds.

BRAY URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL SURCHARGES

At the meeting of Bray Urban District Council last night, Mr. J. Healy, Local Government Auditor, in his audit of the accounts of the Council for the year ended March 31, 1940, reported that he had surcharged £200 (£50 each against Councillors Edward Byrne and P. Ledwidge, and ex-Councillors J. Dunne and H. Hipwell), in respect of a fee paid to the Surveyor under the Town and Regional Planning Act, as sanction of the Minister for Local Government had not been obtained.

HELPING THE NEEDY

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY

AN appeal for increased support to meet the exceptional distress of Dublin's poor was made last night at the annual meeting of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul in the Mansion House, Dublin.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman P. S. Doyle, T.D.), who presided, said that there were indications that the coming winter would be a severe one, and never in its long history would the Society have a heavier burden.

Proposing a resolution that the Society was worthy of support, the Attorney-General, Mr. Kevin Haugh, said that in Dublin the active members of the Society numbered under 2,000. The money expended in relief in the year before the war was £26,000, and last year the amount was £34,000. According to a circular that would be issued on behalf of the Society, there were many people so weak and under-nourished that even if they were offered work they would be unable to do it. Thousands were without clothing or bedclothes, and thousands were without fuel of any kind, and, as a result of the war, numerous people were for the first time without employment or the means of supporting their families.

MANY ADVERSITIES

Dr. C. J. McSweeney, Medical Superintendent, Fever Hospital, Dublin, seconding the resolution, said those who visited the homes of the poor, such as priests, doctors and brothers of the Society, knew with what courage, fortitude, patience and heroism this section of the community battled with the many adversities that confronted them. He suggested that the social work of the Society should be more closely linked with the work of their hospitals.

Mr. J. J. O'Leary said that the need to-day was not for selective charity, but for the wholesale and widespread relief which was given by the Society.

Senator Sean P. Campbell, in the unavoidable absence through indisposition of Sir John Keane, Bart., Governor of the Bank of Ireland, moved a resolution that a subscription list be opened. Conditions existing in some parts of Dublin, he said, must shock the social conscience of the community. The St. Vincent de Paul Society helped to the full extent of its power, but this year they should endeavour to increase its funds by at least 50 per cent.

Aodh de Blacam, seconding, suggested that a well-to-do family should "adopt" a poor family, or a well-to-do locality should adopt a poor street in Dublin. Proceeding, he said that the Press appreciated the wonderful work of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, and stated that the late Mr. John Healy, editor of the Irish Times, at this season of the year drew on his wonderful fund of exquisite writing, and poured forth a great appeal for the cause of that Society. He was not a Catholic, or at one with the mass of the people in their political aspirations, but he was heart and soul with the work of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, and that was a great thing, and an example in these days of European upheaval of the unity of the charity of Christ.

Judge O'Brien, Hon. Sec., expressed the thanks of the Society to the Bress.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

A subscription list was opened, and was headed by His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin (the Most Rev. Dr. McQuaid) with £500. The Irish Rugby Football Union (Leinster Branch) contributed £207.

GATE THEATRE

"TARTUFE"

MOLIERE'S masterpiece, like "Hamlet," can stand the experiment of modern dress, although, unlike that treatment of Shakespeare, it cannot be said to be improved by it. For, as great comedy, with its straightforward movement and masterly unity, it could not be brought closer for our enjoyment than its own lines bring it. This, too, although the rhymed couplet, in long reaches at least, is scarcely the most satisfactory form of dramatic dialogue. Here, however, the further modernisation which Lord Longford brings to the play, by giving us the language of to-day in his translation, helps, although nothing could make any clearer the unswerving simplicity of the master himself in his treatment of his theme. For it is in this comedy, with its adroit story, that he most abundantly displays his sheer craftsmanship.

What a preparation we get for the entrance of Tartufe, the self-seeking hypocrite, bent on hiding his greed behind the mask of piety. We know that he is going to be as he proves himself, and yet how much we enjoy the unfolding of his character and his final unmasking. Like "Hamlet," too, "Tartufe" is actor-proof. It would be almost impossible to play it really badly, and yet how well it can repay the very best kind of handling, such as it gets in this production, which is always on the side of brightness, of swiftness. Still, it is a thoughtful play beneath its laughter. One might almost think of it, even now, as a grave and sombre comedy, did it pause in its pace to let one think.

But it did not pause for a moment in this production by Gerald Pringle, and, perhaps, Hamlyn Benson emphasised sufficiently the depths of Tartufe, the hypocrite. Yet, as it was, he seemed to resign a good deal of the play to Orgon, the uncalculating, trusting man, and to give Michael Ripper almost the bigger part. They were, however, two excellent pieces of playing, as were also the Mariana of Bonnie Fagan, and the Dorina of Cathleen Delaney, with Ronald Ibbs, Doris Finn, John Izon, John Biggerstaff and Christopher Casson helping well to make a most enjoyable performance.

DUBLIN'S LOW DEATH RATE

County Dublin has the lowest death rate of any county or county borough in Eire for the year 1941. This is announced by the County Medical Officer for Health, Dr. J. A. Harbison, in his annual report just published. The total number of deaths was 1,611, compared with 1,634 for 1940. The death rate per 1,000 was 12.5. Pulmonary Tuberculosis claimed 116 victims, compared with 138 in 1940 and 134 in 1939, while deaths from other forms of tuberculosis numbered 37 in 1941 compared with 43 in 1940 and 39 in 1939. This is the lowest rate per 1,000 since 1935. The number of deaths of infants under one year was less than the previous year—171, compared with 185, despite an epidemic of diarrhœa and enteritis. The number of deaths from cancer, 160, exceeds the number of deaths from tuberculosis, but most of them occur in the later age groups. The number of births registered for 1941 was 1,170, but this figure, which is subject to correction, may increase considerably.

Commenting upon the deaths from tuberculosis, Dr. Harbison stresses the lack of accommodation both for incipient and more advanced cases, and until adequate institutional treatment for all cases is immediately available, he says, cases retained in the home must continue to spread the disease, in addition to having their chances of recovery diminished.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"LOVE ON THE DOLE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Referring to the admirable performance of the play "Love on the Dole" by the MacLiammoir-Edwards Company at the Gaiety this week, I suggest that it might be worth the Astor Cinema's while to repeat the picture for a week. I fancy many of those who have not seen the picture would now like to make the interesting comparison between it and the play.—Yours, etc.,

LYNN DOYLE.

COOKING FAT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—We wish to bring to your notice the seriousness of the position regarding cooking fat.

Now that butter is beyond the purse of many, it is essential to the health of the community that cooking fat should be obtainable at a reasonable price. Although edible fats are not to be used for industrial purposes, fat is very scarce, and is being sold at exorbitant prices. Butchers will not make dripping to sell at 9d. per lb. when they can sell fat at 1s. to 1s. 6d. per lb. (The shortage of dripping is excused because of the gas shortage.) The housewife cannot make much more than ½lb. of dripping out of 1lb. of fat, on top of which she uses her fuel.

We urge the Minister for Supplies to control the price of cooking fat in relation to the present controlled price of dripping.—Yours, etc.,

A. D. SKEFFINGTON,
M. H. TWEEDY,
Joint Hon. Secs., Irish Housewives' Committee.

NATIONAL PLANNING

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As queries have been received regarding the Government's view of the National Planning Conference's aims and activities, the Committee think it well to inform you:—

(1) That the Taoiseach and other Ministers, whose Departments are more directly concerned with planning and reconstruction problems, have been kept informed of the various steps which have been taken to prepare for next year's National Planning Exhibition.

(2) That the Taoiseach has signified the Government's "warm approval" of the Conference's efforts to direct the minds of citizens to certain practical aspects of post-war reconstruction problems.

(3) That His Excellency the President has:—
"noted with interest and appreciation the purposes of the proposed exhibition, and the wide scope of the work to be undertaken. He will follow with close interest the activities of the Council, and desires to convey his best wishes for the success of the exhibition."

The Committee heartily welcome these expressions of approval—more especially as they obviate any risk of confusion between voluntary planning effort, and the ultimate responsibility of Ministers and legislators for the determination of policy to which plans necessarily must be made to conform.—Yours, etc.,

FERGUS J. RYAN,
Hon. Secretary.

A BETTER IRELAND

A conference to discuss the building of a better Ireland will be held early in November in connection with the United Council of the Christian Churches and Religious Communions in Ireland. At a preliminary meeting held in Dublin on Monday last it was decided to invite to the conference all who are interested in the subject, and also to collaborate with any other body working for the same end.

Questions dealing with the social and moral well-being of the community, social justice and the Churches' responsibility in the matter will be discussed. Similar questions are being dealt with in England under the auspices of the British Council of Churches, whose chairman is the Archbishop of Canterbury. One of the secretaries of the British Council, the Rev. R. E. Burlingham, is coming to Dublin this week to give information concerning the work of the Council in England.

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles Na gCopaleen

RECENTLY I had (the privilege) of inspecting the accounts of the world's largest shipping concern, Cunard-White star. They revealed a staggering budget of expense. A sum of £47,000,000, for instance, was set aside for the purchase of steel plates, £31,500,000 for steel sheeting, £28,000,000 for "fittings," and as much as £2,700,000 for one year's supply of paints "and accessory chemicals." What interested me most, however, was this lonely little item, tucked away at the bottom of an immense column of sterling:

"TAR .... ½d."

To the (untutored mind) it may seem ridiculous to include so utterly trivial-looking an item. But of course the people who run this company know what they are doing. They are unlikely to run the risk of losing a gigantic vessel like the Queen Mary for the want of looking after that little matter. Do you get me?

YES, MORE OF IT

What happens to blows at a council meeting?
It looks as if they might be exchanged.
What does pandemonium do?
It breaks loose.
Describe its subsequent dominion.
It reigns.
How are allegations dealt with?
They are denied.
Yes, but you are weakening, Sir. Come now, how are they denied?
Hotly.
What is the mean temperature of an altercation, therefore?
Heated.
What is the behaviour of a heated altercation?
It follows.
What happens to order?
It is restored.
Alternatively, in what does the meeting break up?
Disorder.
What does the meeting do in disorder?
Breaks up.
In what direction does the meeting break in disorder?
Up.
In what direction should I shut?
Up.

FINE OLD WINE

The grand-daddy was remembering an old chestnut the other day about his friend a certain builder. That's a fine building you're putting up, Paddy. I see it's in the classical manner.

What do you mean the classical manner?

Oh, them statues along the balustrade and so on.

Thems not statues, thems me labourers.

It's like the other one about the ganger ringing up the Corporation depot for more spades.

Sure what the hell do they want more spades for, says your man in the office, can't they lean against one another?

SYMPHONY CONCERT

The symphony concert season had a most encouraging start last night when the Dublin Orchestral Players—in a sense the youngest of our orchestras—gave a delightful concert to an overflow audience in the Round Room of the Mansion House. Dr. Havelock Nelson, conductor, has here a grand body of players, many of whom are young people fresh from the teaching institutions. They began very well with the Prometheus Overture, by Beethoven, the string tone here being very pleasing. The brass and woodwind also were in splendid accord, and, though there were a few minor breaks, they hardly detracted from a performance that was thoroughly enjoyable. Schubert's Fifth Symphony further emphasised the splendid string quality, especially in the lovely Andante movement.

The high-light of the concert was the Concerto in B flat minor (Tschaikovsky), with Charles Lynch at the piano. His playing was brilliant and well-nigh as perfect as could be desired, the technique polished and smooth, and the work was beautifully shaped and phrased. The orchestral support was delicately sympathetic and marked with great precision.

One enjoyed hearing again the orchestral rendering of Prokofiev's descriptive suite, "Peter and the Wolf," with Sylvia Fannin; a devotional arrangement by W. Whittaker of Bach's great chorale, "Jesu, Joy of Man's desiring;" and the tender Romeo-Juliet fantastic-overture of Tschaikovsky. All round, a most enjoyable evening.

The Board of the Mageough Home, Palmerston road, Dublin, yesterday appointed the Rev. Canon Goff, Rector of Portarlington, to be Chaplain and Registrar of the Home.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
TUESDAY NIGHT.

IN many parts of Britain the late rains have created a flush of grass—more than sufficient for grazing stock. Mr. Hudson's Department to-day warned farmers that, unless it is made into silage before the frosts cause it to wither and die, the food value of the grass will be lost. Ensiling will preserve the grass in its present palatable and nourishing condition, and will help to maintain winter milk in the months when feeding stuffs will be badly needed.

Women in Industry

One of the many great social changes caused by the war is the ever-widening employment of women in industry. Statistics published to-day reveal that, even in the heavy iron and steel industry, one worker out of seven is a woman. At one great steelworks, where nearly two thousand women are at work, one-fifth of them are over forty. There women drive the locomotives which take the red-hot steel slabs to the rolling mill, and do heavy labouring work, such as ore filling and loading slag and scrap and steel turnings. Their output on machines is only slightly less than that of the men, and managers who eighteen months ago were very sceptical about the employment of women workers are now enthusiastic. In the smelting shops women are in charge of no fewer than twenty-nine different operations.

Fortune from Bridge

Mr. Ely Culbertson, who has made a fortune from his books on Bridge, has now written an "Official Book of Contract Bridge," to compile which he studied closely nearly two hundred modern text books on the game. The Secretary of the Portland Club, which, with the Whist Club of New York, frames the current international laws of the game, said to-day that the present laws of Bridge were brought into use seven years ago, on the understanding that there would be no revision for five years. But for the war there would have been a new code out long ago. Apparently there is to be no revision until peace comes.

More Pay for Milkmen

Our peep o' day friends, the milk men and milk women, are shortly to receive a further increase in wages, their fifth since the outbreak of the war. The increase follows prolonged negotiations, and is awaiting the sanction of the Ministry of Labour. Foremen are to receive 85s. a week in towns, and 78s. in rural areas. Roundsmen, 75s. and 68s., roundswomen, 62s. 6d. and 55s. Pasteurisers and sterilisers will receive 80s. and 73s., according to the area. For some months now there have been only six deliveries of milk a week instead of seven in many London areas, and now that the winter is coming in, milk is unofficially rationed, and averages three pints a week for adults. Expectant mothers and children get one to two pints a day, according to their needs. The price is 4½d. a pint for ordinary milk in almost every district.

Medical Study Speed-up

In order to speed up the provision of doctors as a wartime measure, six months has been lopped off the period of clinical study, and as no lowering of the standard was either permissible or desirable this means a greater and more sustained effort on the part of the students. Competition to enter the medical profession shows no sign of decreasing. In fact, the very reverse is the case. As the accommodation of the medical schools is strictly limited, it is impossible for all who wish to study medicine to be taken into the schools, and there is now a quota imposed for women students at most universities as well as for men.

The Debts of 1914-18

Since 1918 the last page of the Finance Accounts of the United Kingdom—the 1941-42 issue of which has just been published—has been devoted to a list of the debts due by Allies to Britain arising out of the last war. Prominent among these was the Russian debt, to which unpaid interest was added each year. As a result, the original principal of £600,000,000 had swollen by March 31 of last year to £1,691,000,000. In this year's accounts the Russian debt is not mentioned, but a global figure of loans outstanding from the war of 1914-18 is still given. This is £3,037,131,956. A comparison of this figure with that of last year reveals that the recording angel of the Treasury, far from having forgotten about Russia's debt, has added to the principal some £90,000,000 of interest which has accrued during the past twelve months.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

The Cycle Thief

Despite the warnings of judges, the vigilance of the police and the precautions taken by the owners of machines, the bicycle thief continues to ply his nefarious trade in Dublin (that cliché, by the way, should add years to Myles na gCopaleen).

During 1941 over 2,000 bicycles were purloined in the Dublin Metropolitan area. If the thieves continue at the rate at which they have been going since the beginning of this year, the toll of the bicycle for 1942 will be even greater. During each of the eight months ended August last an average of over 200 bicycles disappeared.

With a continuous spate of robberies all over Dublin, it is small wonder that the harassed Civic Guards are unable to grapple with the "toss school" problem or the ever-growing evil of the open-air card school.

Mr. George Fleming

A pioneer of the Irish cinema, a founder of Irish paper mills, an international rifle shot, a first-class footballer, and a power in professional boxing—to be any one of these would be sufficient for most. Mr. George Fleming, owner of the Capitol Theatre for the past twenty-two years, whom I met for the first time the other day, has combined all of them very successfully.

Born seventy-two years ago in India, and educated in his father's country, Scotland, he worked in paper mills there until he came to Northern Ireland at the beginning of this century. In 1913 he bought a single ticket to Dublin, and established the paper mills at Drimnagh and those at Clondalkin, which at present are alleviating the newsprint shortage.

Shortly afterwards he entered the cinema business, when, partnered by the late Frank Chambers, he took charge of the old Carlton Cinema in O'Connell street, and in 1920 he, Chambers and Tony Reddin built the La Scala Theatre on the blackened site in Prince's street where the Freeman's Journal had flourished until it was burned during the Rebellion.

A Rathmines Star?

He played senior football in England with Barnsley, the famous League Club, and was a member of the team which contested unsuccessfully the final of the Beckett Shield Club many years ago. He became a director of the club, and was a member of the board when the team won the Football Association Cup.

For years he shot for Ireland in miniature rifle contests, and was a member of the Irish team in the first international match ever held. The venue was Perth, in Scotland, where it was discovered that he, a Scotsman, was shooting for the Irish team. As this was the first contest, however, the international rules had not been drawn up completely, and so it was decreed that residence in a country gives a man the right to represent it in rifle matches. This ruling survives to-day.

Problem?

At present he is Chairman of the Eire Boxing Board of Control, which has just signed twenty-one-year-old Jimmy Ingle into professional ranks. Mr. Fleming predicts a successful career for Ingle, whom he describes as "a very promising youngster."

Rathmines readers may be able to help him with a problem which has arisen from his latest film, "The Strange Case of Dr. R. X." One of the players, Paul Cavanagh, is said to be a native of Rathmines, but Mr. Fleming cannot confirm this from either the film agents in this country or any other source. He would welcome any news, he told me.

At the Play

The Abbey Theatre, with commendable courage, closes its doors immediately before the curtain rises, thereby preventing latecomers from spoiling the pleasure of those playgoers who arrived in proper time.

Other theatres might do well to follow the example. The first quarter-hour of the admirable Edwards-MacLiammoir production of "Love on the Dole," at the Gaiety on Monday evening, was completely ruined for myself and many others by the clattering and shuffling and general obnoxiousness of late arrivals.

It was unfair to most of the audience, and, I should say, equally unpleasant to the actors.

QUIDNUNC.

STALINGRAD

BY OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT.

THESE notes have so far not made much mention of Stalingrad. The reason was that it was difficult to express an opinion as to what the fate of the city was likely to be. Now, however, the silence can be broken, because the season of the year is so far advanced that Stalingrad's importance is no longer the same as before. If the Russians can succeed in holding on to the place, that manifestly would amount to a major Axis defeat. But even if the Axis should succeed in capturing it, the game could very easily prove not to have been worth the candle. The losses are enormous, and the advantage very difficult to exploit. Some German commentators have stressed the obvious fact that what mattered was not so much the occupation of Stalingrad—or its ruins—as the interruption of the Volga navigation, especially of the oil and grain going northwards. This flow of supplies has been stopped ahead of time—i.e., before the freezing of the Volga stopped it automatically. There the matter stands for the present.

Let us now cast a look back on this year's fighting in Russia—which has lasted for five months. Regarding it, M. Kalinin wrote in Izvestiya last Midsummer's Day: "It is permissible to state with conviction that the German Army is no longer capable of carrying out a general offensive along the entire front." Now, whether this represents the truth or not, it is quite certain that this year the German Army made no attempt at an offensive of a general kind. In point of fact, from Voronezh northward it has remained altogether on the defensive for the best part of a year. Only on the southern third of the front—from Voronezh to Rostov-on-Don—have the Axis armies attacked this year, beginning at Kertch just five months ago.

NO FINALITY

In its general effect the Axis 1942 offensive has hit the Russians very hard—just how hard we cannot say exactly. At the same time, it does not seem as if any sort of finality has been reached. In other words, the Axis armies do not seem to have reached a line on which they could suitably halt for the winter. Even supposing that they capture Stalingrad, it would seem desirable to secure the rest of the lower course of the Volga down to the Caspian Sea. That means a further 250 miles S.E. from Stalingrad—to say nothing about the necessity to clarify the situation on the Southern or Caucasus flank.

It will be recalled how last winter the German armies were similarly adventured in a point on the Lower Don. A Russian counter-attack struck them and recovered a great extent of territory. Probably this year the Russians are relatively less capable of a counter-offensive in the south — but, as against this, the German communications are 250 miles longer. It is certain that Marshal Timoshenko has great masses along the Axis flank from Voronezh to Stalingrad, and there would seem to be no reason why pressure along this line could not be maintained almost indefinitely. And, for the present at least, the Axis troops here can have had no opportunity of setting up a solid defensive front. Everything they have been able to put in has been used offensive, in the attempt to take Stalingrad. And it would now seem as if Russian reinforcements are coming into play faster than the attack can be strengthened. Indeed, it is rather remarkable that Mazdok and the Caucasus side has of late been receiving an increased degree of attention from the Axis Command.

INTENTION

As regards the possible exploitation by the Axis of the tremendous pounding at Stalingrad, it is hard to see how any such can take place this year. The advance has reached its dead point as far as can be gathered. No major strategic move seems possible, whether north, east or south. And yet one reads such rubbish as turning northwards towards Moscow and south towards Baku. Indeed, in his speech of September 30 the Fuehrer practically announced his intention to set about consolidating his gains. We may take it that the Russian campaign of 1942 is drawing to a close, as far as the Axis Powers' offensive is concerned.

The really interesting problem is whether or not the Russians are capable of staging such a second winter comeback as they did last year. They have lost enormously, beyond all question—even admitting that their military losses in both men and material have been substantially less than last year. This time they have lost economically and industrially—grain, oil, coal, etc. The main difficulty will be to make good the loss of the grain harvest of the Ukraine and Don. There is, of course, a sort of grim compensation in the matter of transport: if there is no food to be carried there is all the greater supply of rolling-stock to carry war material. In any event, this particular shortage will not be immediately felt. There are likely to be enough stocks of everything to warrant the initiation of local offensives during the next few months.

Your Child's Health is at Stake

There is danger in "saving" on Home Remedies— Ask Your Doctor

One point on which all doctors, nurses and child welfare experts agree is — Never give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first.

All mothers know this, but not all practise it. Often the instinct to save a few pennies by buying "something just as good" overcomes their caution.

So when your little one has an upset stomach, is sick and bilious, get 'Milk of Magnesia.' Then you can rest assured that you have the safest and best antacid that money can buy. Prescribed by doctors and used by nurses, 'Milk of Magnesia' is the ideal preparation for a child. It sweetens a sour stomach in a few minutes. It cools the blood and gently regulates the bowels as nothing else can.

Many mothers find 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets handy. Their pleasant mint flavour appeals very strongly to children, who take them eagerly.

Obtainable everywhere.

'Milk of Magnesia' 1/3 and 2/6 (Treble Size). Also 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 3/6.

'MILK OF MAGNESIA'

No doubt, no uncertainty—I know my complexion is perfect and will remain so. Ancient Irish History is one thing, but when it comes to cosmetics it's the modern liquid foundation for me—Miner's.

Smokers' 'Fur'

How to detect it— How to prevent it

Try this now. Run your tongue round your mouth—do you notice it . . . a rough woolly feeling. Smokers' fur has got a hold, and is staining your teeth. But don't worry, you can stop this fur from ruining the look of your teeth.

Protect Teeth with new toothpaste containing *'MILK OF MAGNESIA'

Dentists know smokers' fur is caused by excess acid in the mouth. Kill the acid and you shift the fur. What is the scientific way to destroy mouth acid? 12,000 dentists say 'Milk of Magnesia' is the most effective antacid known. They recommend smokers to use the toothpaste containing 'Milk of Magnesia'—the only toothpaste containing it — Phillips' Dental Magnesia.

Commence fighting mouth acid tonight. Get a tube of Phillips' Dental Magnesia and clean your teeth with it each night and morning. Then you'll feel the difference; no more morning mouth; no more stale breath. Instead you'll have teeth which look clean, feel clean, are clean; a sweet mouth to give new zest to smoking. A mouth that will say Good morning! and mean it.

7½d., 1/1d., and 1/10½d. Sold everywhere.

Phillips' Dental Magnesia — THE ANTACID TOOTHPASTE

* 'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' preparation of Magnesia.
